

CHAROTAR UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY (CHARUSAT)
FACULTY OF MANAGEMENT STUDIES (FMS)
BACHELOR OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (BBA PROGRAMME)
SEMESTER – VI, UNIVERSITY EXAMINATION, MAY 2018
BM316 BRAND MANAGEMENT

Date: 04/05/2018, Friday

Time: 01.30 PM to 02.00 PM

Total Marks: 15

Student's ID No.
Student's Name: _____
Student's Sign : _____
Supervisor's Name : _____
Supervisor's Sign: _____

Important Instructions:

- All questions are compulsory.
- This is a closed book examination.
- There are two sections in the question paper. Section – I contains Q. No.: 1 which is of 15 marks and Section – II contains total five questions wherein Q. No.: 2 to 5 are of 10 marks each and Q. 6 is a Case study of 15 marks.
- Section – I should be answered in the given question paper and Section – II should be answered in a separate answer book.
- Maximum time allotted for Section – I is 30 minutes. Answer Book for Section – II will be given when the Question Paper for Section – I is returned. However, candidates who complete Section – I earlier than 30 minutes, can collect Answer Book for Section – II immediately after handing over Section – I question paper.
- Figures on the right indicate marks for each question.

SECTION – I

Q.1 Objective Type Questions:
A) Match the following: (i – vi)

15
[06]

Q. No.:		Probable Answer Keys		Write Your Answer Here
i.	Identity	a)	Resonance	i. -
ii.	Meaning	b)	Judgments	ii. -
iii.	Response	c)	Imagery	iii. -
iv.	Relationships	d)	Salience	iv.-
v.	Savvy Customers	e)	Slogan	v. -
vi.	Short Phrases	f)	Brand Challenge	vi. -
		g)	Characters
		h)	Logos
		i)	Symbol
		j)	URLs

B) Multiple-Choice Questions (vii – ix) (Note: Encircle the correct answer)

[03]

- vii. _____ is a special type of brand symbol—one that takes on human or real-life characteristics.
- a) URL
 - b) Slogan
 - c) Character
 - d) None of these

- viii. The _____ product level is a basic version of the product containing only those attributes or characteristics absolutely necessary for its functioning but with no distinguishing features.
- Generic
 - Core
 - Expected
 - None of these
- ix. _____ occurs when two or more existing brands are combined into a joint product or are marketed together in some fashion.
- Co-Branding
 - Brand Extension
 - Brand Portfolio
 - None of these

C) Fill-in the Blanks (x – xii) You may choose from the following answers:

[03]

Ingredient Branding	Merchant Branding	Licensing	Franchising	Product Mix	Brand Mix
------------------------	----------------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

- x. _____ is a special case of co-branding that involves creating brand equity for materials, components, or parts that are necessarily contained within other branded products.
- xi. _____ involves contractual arrangements whereby firms can use the names, logos, characters, and so forth of other brands for some fixed fee.
- xii. _____ is the set of all product lines and items that a particular seller makes available to buyers.

D) True or False (xiii – xv) (Note: Encircle the correct answer)

[03]

- xiii. Using a sub-brand to target a new market segment within the same product category is Line Extension.
(True) or (False)
- xiv. Using the parent brand in a different product category is Category Extension.
(True) or (False)
- xv. The core benefit level is the fundamental need or want that consumers satisfy by consuming the product or service.
(True) or (False)

CHAROTAR UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY (CHARUSAT)
FACULTY OF MANAGEMENT STUDIES (FMS)
BACHELOR OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (BBA PROGRAMME)
SEMESTER – VI, UNIVERSITY EXAMINATION, MAY 2018
BM316 BRAND MANAGEMENT

Date: 04/05/2018, Friday

Time: 02.00 PM to 04.30 PM

Total Marks: 55

Note: - (i) All questions are compulsory.

(ii) This is a closed book examination.

(iii) There are two sections in the question paper. Section – I contains Q. No.: 1 of 15 marks and Section – II contains total five questions where in Q. No.: 2 to 5 are of 10 marks each and Q. 6 is a Case study of 15 marks.

(iv) Section – I should be answered in the given question paper and Section – II should be answered in a separate answer book.

(v) Maximum time allotted for Section – II is 150 minutes.

(vi) Figures on the right indicate marks for each question.

SECTION – II

Q.2 Brand positioning helps in creating perceptual positions in the customer's mind through consistent communication. What challenges do brand managers face while repositioning a brand in the market? 10

OR

Q.2 Trademarks are legal entities, whereas companies can change their logos over the years to suit the emerging marketing situation. Do you agree? Justify using relevant examples. 10

Q.3 Explain Customer Based Brand Equity Pyramid (CBBE) using any product of your choice as an example. 10

Q.4 Explain Brand Hierarchy for the following brands: 10
a) Hero
b) Godrej Soaps
c) Surf Excel
d) Cherry Blossom

OR

Q.4 'The total is always greater than the sum'. Explain the concept of synergy in the context of brand portfolio management. 10

Q.5 Suppose, your company is in the process of designing a new brand. As a brand manager, your company has asked you to submit a proposal for selection of brand elements. What possible brand elements that can be used for designing a new brand? What criteria will you use for selection of brand elements? 10

Q.6 Case Study: 15

Created by an Act of Parliament in 1956, the commission began operations in April 1957. It replaced the Khadi Board that had been in existence since 1920. The commission was given the task of promoting khadi and encouraging village industries. Its primary focus was employment generation in the rural areas, a task that it has performed adequately. The Lok Sabha was informed recently that in 2006-07, KVIC generated employment in the khadi segment for 884,000 rural Indians, and it will help nearly a million rural Indians this year. A majority of the beneficiaries are Dalits and tribals, and of them, 35% are women. Unquestionably, khadi provides a source of livelihood to those who would otherwise live life in penury. The commission was also expected to promote khadi, a task in which it has failed miserably. Sales touched Rs66.31 million in the same period, a meagre 5% more compared with the previous year. Clearly, good intentions don't make up for the absence of retailing chutzpah, marketing savvy and brand positioning. Unarguably, khadi sales stagnate and will plummet soon—khadi retailing is a comprehensive failure. This is paradoxical. In an urban India that is in love with its malls, khadi should have grown phenomenally. It hasn't; it is dying. It isn't that shoppers don't love khadi. There are at least two retail brands with pan-India presence that have clearly been inspired by khadi's appeal and have taken the concept of ethnic chic and simplicity to an altogether different level by adhering to the principle of instilling romance in retailing. On the other hand, the thousands of khadi bhandars and bhavans across India languish, with more employees than shoppers. It is not difficult to fathom why this downturn has occurred. Most of the outlets are started each year to meet budgetary requirements (khadi promotion and production is also a state responsibility). Only a few bhandars enjoy visibility and brand recognition. And even these don't feel the need to change with time and use consumer-friendly retailing methods. Apparently, only one of these many bhandars has a computerized billing system.

That the bhandars have lost the script is in evidence every year on 2 October. On Gandhi Jayanti, the khadi bhandars open their doors to their annual sale, when 20% rebate is offered to consumers. A 10% rebate is offered all year long. That doesn't attract any additional footfalls. The 20% rebate does even now because the average khadi loyalist makes the annual pilgrimage to the bhandar to indulge in what is clearly an act of tokenism. The loyalist is willing to bear the adversity inflicted by the experience—and of being treated as a pest and an unnecessary evil—because of certain well-founded, long-held, but increasingly questioned beliefs. But the woolly-headed khadi loyalist has to face the systemic wrath at the khadi bhandar every 2 October. The simple act of retail—a therapeutic balm at the malls—turns into an ordeal that is almost deliberately designed to keep newcomers at bay, and test the patience of the staunchest loyalist. It is obvious that the people in charge are oblivious to the fact that urban India has changed completely in the last decade. Young India doesn't have the patience for inefficiency. Consumer footfalls gather momentum when there is variety, and a good bargain. But the khadi bhandars don't offer any variety and what it does is far too expensive, even after a 20% rebate.

Most Indians would agree that the khadi movement cannot be allowed to die. If properly marketed, khadi sales can even now grow at a steady clip. What is required is making khadi relevant to the new India. The only plausible solution in such a scenario that could save khadi from extinction is that its retailing should be privatized. The bhandars were created to be a medium between the rural producers and the urban shoppers. This role has not been performed with any degree of effectiveness during the last three decades.

(Source: <https://www.livemint.com/Opinion/e2T3XOhjG2SSkoz6YsIO0H/Privatize-khadi-retailing.html> accessed on April 23, 2018)

Read the above case carefully and answer following questions:

- | | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| [A] | 'Revitalize a brand such as khadi would be a challenge'. Do you agree? Justify. | [7] |
| [B] | What measures do you suggest to revive the brand 'Khadi' in India? Justify. | [8] |