Section-I

Q.1 Read the passage carefully and answer the questions given below.

[12]

Winter's hit hard on the east coast, and moisturizing eczema is a painful, humiliating, sticky process for some people. If you've ever had a case of eczema or continually suffer from it you know that finding ways to relieve eczema can be a frustrating, often expensive process. Many eczema sufferers look for a solution that involves steroid creams and other prescription medications. While this works for many people, the body may get accustomed to the creams and an eczema sufferer might find relief ebbing away the more the cream or medication is used. This is a frequent problem for those who suffer from eczema. For eczema night scratchers, cream may not help. Wearing long-sleeved shirts to bed is the only option for some people who itch their flaky skin in their sleep – only to wake up with a more painful, itchy eczema rash spreading to other places or open skin. Having to put medicated cream on an area that you've already scratched provided only temporary eczema relief. Plenty of people looking for eczema relief know there are natural solutions out there – not just to help with itchy eczema, but to prevent some of the longer-term skin conditions that can be caused by topical steroids. When winter hits, most eczema sufferers find themselves itchier than ever. I have tried numerous products. But a natural, holistic solution that can be used throughout the year for my eczema is what I was looking for. I came across an interest company called The Seaweed Bath Co. The creator of The Seaweed Bath Co. products is a long-time psoriasis sufferer, and can sympathize with the irritating, long-term skin irritation associated with eczema and psoriasis. Relieving eczema is no easy chore – with constant gimmicks, promises of relief and high cost, many eczema relief products are unaffordable or simply won't work. If you are like me and have been frustrated by pumping money into expensive products that don't deliver their promises, I recommend trying the all natural seaweed bath products which are a great source of moisture for your skin and provided me with natural relief from eczema. I looked further into it and found that the brown seaweed in their products have long been an all- natural remedy of various skin conditions. The Seaweed Bath Co.'s products have done an excellent job bringing this ancient, natural source of relief in great smelling bath soaks, shampoos, butter, washes, and more. Seaweed moisturizes the skin and can help provide relief from itchy and dry eczema skin. If you're suffering this winter, the healing power of seaweed can help keep that itching at bay. Seaweed products have helped many, and the healing, moisturizing properties of seaweed are now affordable and available.

Q.2 Make a précis (1/3) of the given paragraph and give it a suitable title. [11]

Once there was a young Inca boy. He had no family except for an old llama. Each day the boy and his llama walked many miles, looking for a home. Each night they curled up together and slept. But one starry evening, the old llama died. The boy buried his friend next to an icy stream. Then he sat under a tree and cried. What would he do? He had no family and no home. The boy cried for a very long time. But there was no one to comfort him. There were only the stars in the sky. Suddenly, the sky filled with bright light. The boy held his breath. He was afraid to move. One bright star fell to the ground. Slowly, the star took the shape of the old llama. She bent her head and drank from the stream. She looked at the boy and smiled. As she jumped back into the sky, bits of llama wool fell. As the Sun began to rise, the boy picked up the soft, warm wool. It glowed in his hands like starlight. He carried the wool to the city and sold it. With the money, he bought a house. He bought two young llamas. He never forgot the star llama. And he was never lonely again.
