(b) Make a précis (1/3) of the given paragraph. [07]

Personal repentance is vital in the transformation process. Repentance literally means "a change of mind." It is to say to the Father, "I want to turn toward you and away from the life I've lived independently from you. I am sorry for who I've been and what I have done and I want to permanently change. I receive your forgiveness for my sins." Many at this point experience a remarkable "washing" from a lifetime's accumulation of all that can degrade a person's soul and spirit. Whether or not we sense God's forgiveness, if we repent, we can be very certain that we're forgiven. Our confidence is based on God's promise to us, not how we feel. We come into a personal relationship with the Lord when we make life's greatest decision – the turning point referred to earlier. It is to believe that Jesus is the Son of God, the One who died for our sins, who was buried and was raised from the dead – and to receive him as our Savior and Lord. When we believe in this way, we become God's children. This is emphatically promised in John's gospel: "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God"

Section-2

Q.4 Read the following passage carefully and state the statements as true or false.

[10]

Shambo, the bull at the centre of a three-month legal fight, has been killed. After a positive test for TB, an order was made for his slaughter, in keeping with the law. However, the multi-faith community where he lived went to court to try to save him as he was a sacred animal to Hindus. A High Court judge said that the order to kill him was unlawful, but the decision was overturned in the Appeal Court. Police had to be called in as worshippers had formed a human shield around the animal to stop him being taken away. Opinion is very divided on the issue- some believe that he was a danger to the national herd and needed to be killed, while others feel that religious beliefs should be respected and the community had offered to provide sufficient measures to ensure that he would not infect any other animals if he contracted the disease as they planned to isolate him. The authorities cut through the security fence and led the bull away. The following morning they announced that he had been given a lethal injection. The debate on the issue is unlikely to end with the death of Shambo and may widen into a debate about the policy of killing cows that test positive for TB.

Statements.

- Q1 - Shambo lived in a religious community.
- Q2 - The community did not do much to try to save him.
- Q3 - The case went to more than one court.
- Q4 - Police went in because there were violent protests.
- Q5 - Everybody feels that he needed to be killed.
- Q6 - The community wanted Shambo to mix with other animals despite the TB test.
- Q7 - Shambo was definitely ill with TB.
- Q8 - The authorities entered the place where Shambo was kept without any problems.
- Q9 - Shambo was shot dead.
- Q10 - From now on, no cows that test positive will be killed.
